Brief Report

Datathon was organized in multiple countries like Sofia (Bulgaria), Beirut (Lebanon) and Jaipur (India) by an international data science society which aims to help students to become better entrepreneurs. The event saw participation from 30+ teams from multiple countries comprising 100+ coders. The teams coded intensively non-stop, to find the solution of the problems provided to them.

Datathon intended to provide an opportunity to enthusiastic students and professional coders community from across the country to innovate and develop a live solution to a given problem statement. The event was flagged off by Dean Engineering, Prof. Dr. Baldev Singh. The event was graced by Daya Prakash, Founder - TalentOnLease; Pramod Sharma, Data Scientist - Cogniticx; Rajeev Soni, Chief Product Officer - Glasswing, Siddhant Agarwal, International Speaker - AI/ML/Cloud Computing.

The participants were provided round the clock mentor support, to motivate and help them with any roadblock they faced. After the initial round of screening, a total of 10 teams were shortlisted to present their solutions. The presentation was followed by a rigorous Q&A session. The finalists were presented with goodies sponsored by CakeGift.in. The runners up were given prizes sponsored by Google Developer.
