Brief Report

The workshop started with a welcome note for the guest speaker Ms Kanak Sehgal by the host. Ms Sehgal emphasized on creating an ecosystem for an entrepreneurial mindset. She added that entrepreneurial ventures around the globe aim to innovate products, processes and services and typically aim to scale up the company by adding employees, expanding internationally, etc. Such ideas are financed by venture capitals and angel investors.

Further she added that an entrepreneur develops a business plan; acquires human, financial and other required resources; and is responsible for its success or failure. Entrepreneurship operates within an ecosystem which includes government programs and services that support entrepreneurs, not-for-profit entrepreneurship resources (e.g., incubators and accelerators), entrepreneurship education and training; and financing (e.g., loans, venture capital, and grants). Students need to develop practical skills from the start of their degree courses. She also had some fun learning activities planned for the students to make the workshop more interactive. The workshop was attended by 51 students from the Department of Management. It was full of practical and insightful experience for development of entrepreneurship skills.
