Brief Report

Buildings are vessels of our stories; they are our cultural artifacts and contain the stories of who we are, where we have come from, and where we will be going to. Architectural history records and studies the forms, purpose, and evolution of buildings and also interprets architecture.

Key Objectives

To help the students understand different cultures and societies, it is very important to learn about the recorded buildings as it helps the modern-day architects as well as the students of architecture to compare between the contemporary architecture and the ancient ones so that they can have a more fundamental and culturally inclusive approach while designing.

Conclusion

The session was organized during COVID-19 pandemic and lockdown situation, to provide knowledge and information to the young aspirants, on the history of architecture, for development of their knowledge and skills into theory related domain of architecture and design. Ar. Abhishek Srivastava attended the seminar. Around 50 participants attended this one day seminar on online mode.
